MAGISTERS

Male Inquisitor

Shield Set

Male Priest

Male Assassin

The Magisters are religious fanatics, and we really wanted to reflect that in every part of their design. We added elements of a priestly dress, richly decorated with golden patterns, to highlight this.

RED PRINCE

It would be negligent of me to begin a tale of Rivellon's most fascinating figures with anyone other than the Red Prince. Although he may be little known outside of the Ancient Empire, within the right circles his name is synonymous with mystery, with victory, with glamour, and – most of all – with disgrace.

Despite its ending, his story began with great promise. The only red lizard in history, raised in a sealed, forbidden city – it was surely the stuff of legend! Born into the royal family within the House of War, this young prince seemed destined to lead his empire to greatness. He lived his entire life in the sealed-off Forbidden City, a vast complex of palaces home to the royal family of his house. He excelled at everything he tried – could name any star in the sky, take on the Empire's best in duels, and give a judgement on any conflict. It was oft said that he could make fire and water settle their differences, had he a mind to. Even the House of Law was forced to swallow their pride and admit he was as insightful as he was bold. But of course, he was perhaps best known for his battles. Many of them will ring in the annals of history for generations – the Ambush at Dragon's Spine, the Battle of Ferol Fields, the Hiberheim Invasion. Once upon a time, 'Red Prince' was a byword for victory – doubly so because he never set foot on a battlefield. After all, what need he with tents and mud when his generals could come to him with maps, describe the terrain, and have him tell them how best to win from the comfort of his own throne room. His victories (often against impossible odds) are as legendary as they are bloody. As such, his fame is as great as his infamy. So where did it all go wrong? Oh, how I wish I knew. There are stories of murder, affairs, or dangerous Sorcery. Sometimes all three! Some say he made a blood pact with a demon, others that he had a part to play in the death of blessed Lucian. All I can say for sure is that he lost his throne and was chased from his Empire. Perhaps someday we will know the truth, but for now his secrets are kept well.

"Some say he made a blood pact with a demon, others that he had a part to play in the death of blessed Lucian."
