Very well-made "tank fighting" couch coop game.

The combat and movement feel quite satisfying.

Good quick fun.. A terrible outfit made from reused assets of other outfits. This is the final DLC - and the gear that comes with it is literally just reused older gear.

Really speaks a lot about this games DLC.

Don't recommend it.. A nifty little puzzle game, tackling the mind-bending world of time travel in a novel way (for a game). The trailer and screenshots are a pretty accurate guide to what to expect in this game, although they don't illustrate how polished the game is throughout - if you like hat you see, get it!. The 30% discount for the Dark Deception Complete (Windows 10 PC), was worth it! Amusingly, though for the Windows 10 PC, the character movement is still a little lagging and doesn't run as smoothly or as quick. Additionally for Level 1 Monkey Business (The Free Base Game), it was difficult because when I used the WASD keys to move, it seems a little too rigid and slow, the fluidity seems to be a bit subpar compared to YouTuber's who purchased and put a video up, the graphics are smooth and fluid,, and their character's speed was fast when using the WASD keys. I tried to fix this with the mouse sensitivity (that works, a little), however, the monkeys seems to catch up and I got a Game Over. I hope they have a software update soon to fix this problem.. Not something that I wanted.

You're better off learning Game Maker and slugging it out with its price tag or use any other engine possible

. FOF 7 is incredibly immersive. Whether playing in single player mode or multiplayer in one of the many online communities the game is true to football but also a wonderful player development model. It is quite satisfying to take a team and build from the ground up. Coaching... Players.... Developing your style of play.... Game planning.... Community in the multiplayer world. It's a great game.

. I bought this DLC, and you dont recieve the weapons that are clearly showcased as apart of the legendary outfits you purchase. 32\u20ac for half finished sets, very dissapointing.. I really like this game and hope it gets some recognition.

This is my review: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Cfx3giR-ITc>

I also want to mention that some other reviews say shooting pushes you or something like that, this never happend to me.. Its a good little game. I enjoyed it while travelling. You can finish the whoe thing within couple of hours max.

Awesome chill game to play with friends!. in Space is an addictive, surprisingly enjoyable space shooter with enjoyably simplistic mechanics. As a ship with what basically amounts to a peashooter strapped to it, you fire at coloured shapes to stop them from reaching past your defences. However with each shot your defensive line edges forward, making the game harder and harder. This is where the aforementioned simplistic mechanics come in. In one mode of the game you need to destroy three or more of the same coloured shape to get your defensive line to move back. In another, you have to time your shots and destroy ships in rapid succession to get it to recede.

This mechanic is really cool and nifty and makes the game fun to play. It requires pinpoint accuracy and you only really have yourself to blame if you break your combo.

Throw in some cool Atari Esque visuals and a decent soundtrack and you've got a game that is more than worth the 79p it's sold for.. Ultimately this is not a BAD game, but I did find it a bit more frustrating than I was expecting. For a game that relies so heavily on platforming, the platforming felt... well, not great. There were a lot of times considering how little of the game I played where I was sure I was landing on a landable surface only to find that I fell right through the floor. Then I would jump back up and stand on the exact same platform that I had fallen through moments before. There's also some sort of base-building mechanic, and maybe the game gets better once you really get into that, but I never got any sense at all of how to actually hit that breakpoint since the level structure is randomly generated each night. This means that every time you go out you have no idea where your objective will be and you end up just wandering around for a long time. On the whole it's definitely an interesting premise and it could have been really good but a few big issues in platforming and design make it a bit rough at the start and I decided not to press on.. If there was a "Meh" or "Okay" rank I would give it, but since this game isn't really one I'd find an urge to tell someone to play, I'm going to give it a thumbs down.

By all means the game was interesting, but the slow movement and seeming repetitive opening as you went from one part to the next just didn't fit my taste and made it so that I wasn't crawling back to do a reply to get all five of the endings.

If you don't mind it being slow, I'm sure it would be a fun game for you, but for me, while it was nice, its not necessarily the best game for more than a really short play through.. The most metal game soundtrack ever unveiled.. A clever puzzle game to waste sometime while waiting for LoL, Dota, CS queues.. seems like a mobile game. wtf is this. Just flew this plane during a real world lesson today, and flew this addon 172N directly after my lesson. It's a very faithful recreation, especially with P-factor during takeoff and climb. The tachometer's green arc is too large, which I believe should go from 2000 until the red line at 2700 rpm. Highly recommend if you're looking for a real-feeling GA aircraft.
